Final Project Rubric

Description	Total Possible points
Written submission provides background and motivation on the topic, why it is important and worth working on, how it compares to and builds on prior work	20
Written submission provides clear description of methodology, such as the data, models, and metrics or how papers to survey were identified	20
Written submission depicts raw results (e.g. a table or dedicated section). Submission also contains discussion and conclusions demonstrating interpretation of results	20
Written submission discusses ethical implications of the work (can be a separate section or integrated elsewhere)	10
Grammar, formatting, and references	10
[Individual per student] This student contributed meaningfully to the project as a whole	20
Total	100